20.04.2012 - amazing tool

DSLR Controller running on a Nook Color with CM9 is an incredibly cool way to control your Canon 550D.

23.03.2012 - LVM usage visualization are you using LVM but sometimes find it a bit difficult to keep track of your disk space? That's what happened with our numerous file servers and we decided to do something against it. So we came up with a nifty LVM visualization tool that generates interactive charts of the different LVM volume levels: PVs, VGs, LVs, and it also shows file system filling levels. It uses AJAX to generate the graphs one by one and also supports LVM snapshots. You can try it live here and read about it here.

21.03.2011 - in defense of Gnome 3

why is everybody and their dog ranting about Gnome 3? When Fedora 15 came out, sporting the new Gnome 3 desktop, I just tried it. I had been using Gnome 2 before. I performed the upgrade and I loved it from minute one. It is clean, intuitive, and, with the right shell extensions, has exactly the functionality I need from a desktop environment. Maybe y'all just hate it because it's new?

17.03.2011 - oh Black Forest,
